TO EXHUME THE BODY.

Mrs. Pitezel Will be Given an Opportunity to Identify It.

HUNTING THE ALLEGED DEAD MAN.

The Chicago Police Believe They Have a Clew That Will Lead to the Discovery of Pitezel—The Philadelphia Prisoners Now in Moyamensing.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—The Pitezel-Holmes-Howe conspiracy murder mystery has taken an interesting and important turn by the announcement from an official source that the body of Perry, or Pitezel, will again be exhumed and another effort made to identify it.

It will be remembered by those who have followed the history of this extraordinary case that Mrs. Pitezel never saw the dead body of the man who was said to be her husband. The identification was made by her daughter, and it was stated that within the last few days the daughter had expressed her doubts as to the conclusiveness of the identifying marks.

So that all doubt in this connection may be removed, the intelligence comes from an authoritative source that the body will be re-exhumed so that Mrs. Pitezel may be given all the facilities possible for determining whether or not it is the body of her husband. The body is buried in Mechanics' cemetery.

Yesterday Holmes and Mrs. Pitezel were committed to Moyamensing prison, there to await trial. Secretary Crew, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, volunteered to take care of the 16-year-old daughter and the 1-year-old baby, but Mrs. Pitezel objected to having her baby taken from her. Dr. Andrews expressed the opinion that the mother's physical condition would not permit her to care for the baby unassisted, and it was finally arranged that the children should accompany her.

Lawyer Harry Hawkins has been retained to defend Holmes, the money being furnished by a mysterious friend from Chicago. To Hawkins Holmes earnestly declared that he had never been guilty of murder. Lawyer Hawkins says that Holmes complains bitterly of the spiriting away of his wife. He has not been permitted to see her since he was locked up at the Central station, and he does not know where she is. It is the intention of the lawyer to go into court and apply for a writ of habeas corpus, and demand that Mrs. Holmes be produced.

Holmes has retracted many of the statements made or alleged to have been made to a detective when coming to this city from Boston. He declared that both the Williams girls are alive, and that Anna was recently paid $1,000 by Pitezel in New York city. The story of her murder and numerous other crimes with which his name was linked he characterized as "rot," invented to throw the detectives off the scent.

There was a new development yesterday when it was learned that the detectives are looking for an expressman who had been seen with Pitezel and who disappeared about the time the body was found. The theory is that either he had something to do with hauling the body or that he himself was murdered.

Holmes' lawyers state that they will show by documents on record that at the time of the alleged identification of Pitezel that shadowy individual was personally conducting a real estate transaction in this city.

THE ALLEGED DEAD MAN.

Chicago Police Believe They Have a Clew to Pitezel's Whereabouts.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—The Chicago police have obtained a clew regarding Benjamin F. Pitezel, the accomplice of H.H. Holmes alias Howard, who is now detained at Philadelphia on charges of having swindled an insurance company out of $10,000. This amount was placed on Pitezel's life, and on Sept. 3 last a body supposed to have been his was found in Philadelphia. Pitezel had lived up to May 1 last on Madison avenue near Sixty-third street. It was found that Pitezel had vacated his apartments on May 1 and removed the furniture to 407 Sixty-third street. On or about Aug. 1 last he was in the city ostensibly to make arrangements regarding the removal of his household effects to St. Louis, where he intended making his home for the winter.

A letter was received from Pitezel from St. Louis in which he promised to soon clear the standing indebtedness on his furniture and effect its removal. Four letters have been written to Pitezel at St. Louis, and none have been returned, despite the fact that the precaution was taken to place the writer's address, with the usual request for return, on the outside of each envelope. This, the police think, shows that if Pitezel himself is not alive and living at St. Louis some one is representing him there who knows every detail connected with his business transaction. The handwriting of the St. Louis letter corresponds with that of the one mailed at Philadelphia by Pitezel. The police believe they are on the track of the alleged dead man.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: "I have been in a distressed condition for three years from nervousness, weakness of the stomach, dyspepsia and indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely medicine; a few bottles of it have cured me completely. I consider it the grandest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Sold by J. E. Mills, Middletown, N. Y.

THE SUGAR GROWERS' SUITS.

Legal Fight Against Uncle Sam for the Payment of Bounties.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The controversy between the sugar growers of the country and the United States government growing out of the repeal of the act granting one-half a cent a pound upon all sugars grown in the states and territories by the new tariff bill, and the subsequent refusal of the treasury department to pay bounties upon the sugar grown in the present year, reached the first stage in progress to definite legal settlement yesterday.

Mr. J. Archibald Murray, an attorney of New York, filed in the court of claims three suits, identical in character, and all seeking to recover from the government sums of money alleged to be legally due the complainants as bounty upon sugar raised by them in the year 1894. The Chino Valley Beet Sugar company of California sues for $43,121; the Norfolk Beet Sugar company of New Jersey for $3,603, and the Oxnard Beet Sugar company for $11,782.

The complaints are based upon the allegation that the United States, by the act of congress granting a bounty of one-half cent a pound upon all sugar grown in the United States and territories, entered into a legal contract with the complainants, as well as all other sugar growers, and led them by its terms to undertake the culture of beets and other plants from which sugar is obtained, but which could not have been profitably pursued without the benefits of such a contract. The claim is further made that the crops of the complainants were growing, and the sugar resulting from them was in process of manufacture long before the passage by congress of the measure repealing the provisions of the act granting the bounty, and that the government has no right to withhold the payment of the bounties alleged to be due.

The cases will probably be pushed to an early hearing in the court of claims, and will then be taken to the United States supreme court for final settlement. It is understood that the suits are brought as test cases and will be vigorously contested, as an amount reaching some $11,000,000 is at stake in the controversy.

Irwin Arrested in New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—George M. Irwin has been wanted by Pittsburg investors for alleged swindles in the conducting of his grain speculating business. Irwin left Pittsburg, it is said, as soon as he learned that warrants had been issued against him, and went to Philadelphia. Here Officer John J. Sweeney, of Pittsburg, searched for him, and had the warrants indorsed for service by Magistrate Pole, of that city. It was learned that Irwin had come to New York. Sweeney arrested him here yesterday at the Grand hotel. Irwin was taken to Jefferson Market police court and committed to prison pending an examination. Officer Sweeney said today that he believes Irwin had made arrangements to go to Europe.

Steamer Wrecked, Crew Saved.

GEORGETOWN, S. C., Nov. 24.—The tug W. P. Congdon picked up off the bar Captain F. T. Bennington and twelve of the steamship Ozama's crew, bound from Philadelphia to Charleston in ballast. The Ozama struck on Cape Romain shoals and stove a hole in the engine room compartment. The steamer soon after sunk in six and a half fathoms of water. The crew all took to the boats, saving only part of their clothing. The steamer will be a total loss.

Sovereign Has His Salary Reduced.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 24.—The Knights of Labor wound up the session yesterday. A resolution was adopted protesting against the issue of new bonds by the United States government. Before adjournment, on motion of Mr. Sovereign, it was unanimously agreed to reduce the salary of the general master workman from $3,500 to $2,500 per annum. The general assembly will meet next year in Washington.

After touring through old Mexico they will take a steamer for Australia, and from thence to the East Indies, Egypt and Palestine.

RUSSIA'S NEW RULER

Showing Himself Equal to the Responsibilities of His Position.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 24.—The report is confirmed that Baron Morenheim, Russian ambassador to France, will be recalled, and that his place will be filled by Prince Scheremertieff, now governor of the Caucasus. Grand Duke Vladimir will succeed Prince Scheremertieff, and Grand Duke Sergius will succeed Grand Duke Vladimir as commander of the St. Petersburg military district. The office of governor of Moscow, at present filled by Grand Duke Sergius, will be given to Grand Duke Alexander Michaelovitch.

The czar has ordered a three days' arrest at his own residence of M. Von Wahl, governor of St. Petersburg, on account of ordering the police to tear down the mourning decorations on the palace of Countess Stronganoff because she declined to await his official mourning decree. The czar might have overlooked this offense, but the foreign ambassadors had also complained to M. De Giers, the foreign minister, that Von Wahl had treated foreign correspondents badly. Thereupon the czar decided to punish him.

Another instance of the czar's independence is cited. M. Durnovo, minister of the interior, has just recommended for promotion Prince Uchtomsky, who has served in the ministry of the interior for years without advancement, and who is a personal friend of Czar Nicolas. When the recommendation was made his majesty remarked ironically to M. Durnovo: "So you are suddenly appreciating Uchtomsky?" The minister was perplexed, and appeared to be anxious to retract what he had said. It is is stated that the czar will make Prince Uchtomsky his private secretary.

The Pension Appropriations.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The pension sub-committee of the house committee on pensions, after listening for an hour to Commissioner Lochren's explanation of the requirements of his office, virtually decided to report a bill providing for the appropriations recommended by the commissioner in his estimate heretofore furnished, except in the one item of fees for examining surgeons. The original estimate was that $1,000,000 would be required to pay these fees, but Mr. Lochren told the committee that he thought $800,000 would be sufficient, and that figure was decided upon. The appropriation, as decided upon by the sub-committee, will therefore be: For pensions, $140,000,000; for surgeons fees, $800,000; for clerk hire at pension agencies, $450,000; miscellaneous, $131,570; total, $141,381,570.

Destructive Wind Storm in Mississippi.

MERIDIAN, Miss., Nov. 24.—This city was visited yesterday afternoon by the most destructive storm within its history. The wind wrought great damage to buildings, fences and shade trees. At the Central school house, which stands on an eminence in the north central part of the city, two of the large towers were almost demolished, doors and sashes were badly broken, the stairs were almost entirely torn away and some fifty shade trees on the grounds were uprooted. The storm evidently raged fiercest west of the city, and a report is current here that the town of Newton, on the Alabama and Vicksburg railroad, has been swept away, but as the wires west and south are down, full particulars of the storm's work cannot now be secured.

Fined for Keeping a Disorderly House.

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 24.—George Roop, who was convicted of keeping a disorderly house in Gloucester City, where he also sold liquor without a license, got off with a fine in the criminal court. The court imposed a sentence of $500 fine on the conviction for keeping a disorderly house, and an additional $250 for selling liquor without a license. Roop must pay the fine within ten days, or spend a year in jail. He declares he cannot raise the money. Roop is a brother of Harry Roop, the ex-Philadelphia dive keeper. The brother was indicted jointly for keeping the Gloucester house, but Harry failed to appear for trial, and is a fugitive from justice.

Opened by Order of the Court.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 24.—The strong box in the Merchants' Storage and Banking company, which was rented to Mrs. Harris, the Pennsylvania Land and Lumber company swindler, was opened by an expert. The order under which the box was opened was granted by Judge Stone, of the common pleas court. The box was full of greenbacks and gold, the former tied up in packages of $5, $10 and $100 bills, and the gold was in a woman's stocking. The exact amount in the box was found to be $10,500.

A Thief's Strange Plea.

DAYTON, O., Nov. 24.—Max Griprich, a musician in the Soldiers' Home band, pleaded guilty in the common pleas court to stealing jewelry and money from the residence where he roomed, but advanced in extenuation the strange plea that he had practiced on the oboe, and that that instrument had a tendency to make the player insane. He was given the minimum sentence of one year.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Definite Signs of Improvement Reported.

LARGER EMPLOYMENT OF LABOR.

Prices of Farm Products Do Not Improve, but the Prevailing Hopefulness Is Felt in Larger Transactions—Another Reduction in the Price of Wheat.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: There are some changes for the better. The gain is slow, and in some directions not very distinct, but the signs of it are a little more definite than last week. The most important of them is larger employment of labor, answering a better demand on the whole for manufactured products. Much of this is due to the unnatural delay of orders for the winter, which resulted from prolonged uncertainty, but it means actual delay in earning and purchasing power of the millions, and so gives promise of a larger demand in the future. Prices of farm products in the aggregate do not improve, but the prevailing hopefulness is felt in somewhat larger transactions.

The wheat market has lost this week the cent it gained last week, western receipts being larger and Atlantic exports are also larger, 567,711 bushels against 708,026 last year, but these are of small account compared with the great visible supply. Foreign reports this week have been rather more promising, though the fact remains that the world's crop outside the United States is probably the largest ever grown. Corn has declined 1½ cents, receipts having much increased. The foreign demand for cotton continues large, exports being 50,000 bales larger than for the same week last year, but receipts also continue greater than a year ago.

Textile industries have added a few factories to the working list and only one or two withdrawn, and there has been some improvement in the demand for woolens. More supplementary orders for spring have been received, and colder weather has increased the demand for heavy goods. Yet, on the whole, the market is not active, and the manufacture is much below the capacity of the works.

The iron industry again records lower prices for Bessemer iron, $10.40 at Pittsburg, and for some manufactured products. The consumption is large, and for the season fairly well maintained, but as it is not equal to the capacity of works in operation, their struggle to get business keeps prices at the bottom. It is reported that an American ship yard has secured orders to build three armored cruisers for Russia, which will give added work for some years, and that a contract for 10,000 tons cast pipe for Tokio will probably be secured by a southern concern.

The failures this week have been 322 in the United States, against 385 for the same week last year, and 31 in Canada, against 34 last year.

Bradstreets' review says: The features of general trade for the week include an increase in distribution of holiday goods, of heavy clothing, hats, seasonable dry goods, and at various points hardware and shoes. At the south a favorable influence is a moderate advance in the price of cotton. From points in southeastern Atlantic states some hesitancy is reported in supplying goods before making collections for the full season's business. The Pacific coast makes another record in the matter of exports of wheat, Tacoma having secured an unusually large proportion of this business during late weeks. San Francisco wires that vessels are being chartered there to proceed to Columbia river in ballast to load with wheat.

STRIKE COMMISSION'S REPORT.

Commissioner Wright Defends It from the Assaults of Newspapers.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Hon. Carroll D. Wright, chairman of the strike commission, has addressed an answer to the open letter to the commission recently published in The Railway Age. The commissioner says:

"I have examined the points you attempt to make against the commission, and find that every material position taken by you is false, while our own positions are in the main clearly substantiated by the evidence taken by the commission, and chiefly by the sworn testimony of the railway and Pullman officials. This evidence can be freely examined by any one you see fit to send to this office, as I have an extra copy of it, or you can find a copy of it in the hands of Judge Worthington at Peoria.

"The testimony will be printed by order of congress, and then every one can satisfy himself as to the truth of the positions taken by the commission. I believe the report of the commission to be thoroughly impregnable as to every material statement of fact. Whatever specific answer the commission may make to the charges of The Railway Age and of other papers I presume the commission will prefer to make officially, and not to any individual publication. Such an answer I have no right now to make, because I have not consulted the members of the commission. I write this letter on my own responsibility. Whoever calls on me for the purpose of examining the testimony will be accorded every privilege."

Brigands Attack a Town.

ROME, Nov. 24.—A band of fifteen brigands attacked a tobacco store at Gaibanella, near Ferrara, while several other outlaws guarded the streets in the vicinity, threatening anybody approaching. The brigands tried to force an entrance into the store, but its owner and his servants fired at them. The fire was returned by the brigands, and the town was in a state of the greatest excitement. The tocsin was rung from the church steeple, and assistance in the shape of a number of gendarmes soon arrived and drove the brigands out of town. Two of the inhabitants and one brigand were killed during the affray and an officer of gendarmes was wounded.

Fatally Beaten by Italians.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 24.—A bloody fracas occurred in the East Orange outlet sewer excavation which will result in the death of Timothy Dwyer, a foreman, and Thomas Skelly, a laborer. Skelly had incurred the displeasure of the Italian laborers, who fell upon him and beat him with shovels until he fell unconscious in the sewer. Dwyer attempted to rescue Skelly and sixteen Italians beat him down and then jumped upon his body. Rocco Crinohalo, one of the six Italians arrested, was held by Judge Mott for murder, and the other five as accesories.

He Swindled English Capitalists.

YANKTON, S. D., Nov. 24.—John T. Pierce, who is said to have swindled English capitalists, is now said to have been interested in a gold mine near Zacatecas, Mexico, and in efforts to develop the property to have spent $50,000. All his property here has passed into other hands. Creditors are rushing about frantically in efforts to get something for their claims. It is asserted here that the delinquent interest now due Pierce, Wright & Co., the defunct firm, on farm loans on northwestern lands amounts to $50,000.

Howgate May Escape Prosecution.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Captain Henry W. Howgate, formerly disbursing officer of the signal corps, is held in the district jail awaiting trial upon charges of forgery and embezzling large sums of money while holding office many years ago. It is believed at the city hall that the old indictments will be declared defective. Should this be the case there is every probability that Howgate will be released and the prosecution dropped.

Not Mgr. Satolli's Successor.

ROME, Nov. 24.—In regard to the statement circulated by a news agency that the belief is expressed here that Monsignor Lorenzelli, the papal nuncio to the Netherlands, will be appointed apostolic delegate to the United States to succeed Monsignor Satolli, the Vatican authorities inform the Associated Press that nothing has yet been decided concerning any successor to Monsignor Satolli. The matter is simply conjecture.

Fire in a Ship's Cargo.

LEWES, Del., Nov. 24.—The steamer Lampasas, of the Mallory line, running between New York and Galveston, put in the Breakwater with fire in the after hold. The fire was discovered when off Cape Henry, and the steamer was at once headed for the Breakwater. She has a full cargo, chiefly cotton. The ship's sides are reported to be very hot, but the North America's force is confident of subduing the fire.

The Royal Marriage Contract Signed.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 24.—The marriage contract of the czar and Princess Alix of Hesse-Darmstadt was signed yesterday by M. de Giers, the minister of foreign affairs, and by Count Voront-soff-Dachkoff, the minister of the imperial court. The contract makes certain provisions in favor of the princess during the life of the czar and in the event of his death.

Use It in Time.

Catarrh starts in the nasal passages, affecting eyes, ears and throat and is in fact, the great enemy of the mucous membrane. Neglected colds in the head almost invariably precede catarrh, causing, an excessive flow of mucus, and if the mucus discharge becomes interrupted the disagreeable results of catarrh will follow, such as bad breath, severe pain across forehead and about the eyes, a roaring and buzzing sound in the ears and oftentimes a very offensive discharge. Ely's Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for these troubles.

FALL OF PORT ARTHUR.

The Chinese Stronghold at Last Captured by Japanese.

COUNT OYAMA'S GREAT VICTORY.

Description of the Captured Town and Its Great Defenses—The Improvements Made in the Harbor Under the Leadership of French Civil Engineers.

CHE FOO, Nov. 24.—Dispatches have been received here stating that the Japanese captured Port Arthur on Wednesday last, after eighteen hours' fighting.

The fighting was continuous from noon of the 20th. The Japanese fleet did not take part in the engagement, though the torpedo boats attached to the fleet did. The Japanese are now leaving Port Arthur.

Port Arthur, the native name of which is Lu Shun Kou, is the chief naval station of China. Eleven or twelve years ago it was simply a good windbound harbor for the junks that traded along the coast carrying the timber from the Yalu river to ports in the gulfs of Pe Chi Li and Liao Tung, or those of a larger class from the south en route to New Chwang and West Chin Chiu. At that time the village consisted of about sixty to eighty mud houses, with a few shops and three or four inns, which afforded accommodation to travelers to and from the north.

The port is almost surrounded by ranges of hills varying from 300 to 1,500 feet in height, the valleys between being well cultivated. The town at the present time has increased to nearly a thousand houses and shops, and, exclusive of the garrison, the population is estimated at over 6,000. There are two principal and smaller native banks, two large temples and two theatres of recent construction.

In 1881 it was finally decided to construct a dock and refitting basin there. After more than one failure the work was given to foreign contractors, and in the early part of 1887 a French company secured a contract to construct the necessary works needed for a naval dockyard. At the end of 1890 the contractors completed the task entrusted to them. The entrance to the port was deepened and a basin constructed inside with a depth of twenty-five feet at low water.

The port contains spacious wharves and quays, fitted with steam cranes, and connected by a railroad with the workshops. There is a dock over 400 feet long, having twenty-five feet of water on its sills at low tide, which can be emptied in a few hours by means of a steam pump. There is also a smaller dock suitable for torpedo boats. The foundries and workshops contain the most modern machines, engines, etc. The dockyard can be lighted by electricity.

For the last six years dredges have been employed to deepen the natural harbor. The bar has been deepened from twelve to about twenty-four feet to enable permanent mooring to be laid down for the larger men-of-war. About four miles north of the port their is a spring of fresh water. This water is now run through pipes to the dockyard, and the town is also partially supplied with water in the same way.

The defenses of the port consist of well constructed forts, armed with modern guns of heavy caliber. The coast defenses are spread over more than four miles of seaboard, and consist of about twelve batteries equally distributed on either side of the entrance to the port. The armament consists of more than forty Krupp guns, including some rifled mortars. In addition there is a torpedo boat station and an elaborate system of sub-marine mines.

The second Chinese-Japanese army, under command of Field Marshal Count Oyama, minister of war, consisted of about 30,000 men, and when this force arrived off the Regent's Sword promontary it was divided into two detachments, one of which, aided by part of the Japanese fleet, operated against Talienwan, while the other directed its movements against Kin Chow, on the western side of the promontary, some miles north of Port Arthur. Talienwan and Kin Chow were both captured, after which the army again combined and the march on Port Arthur was commenced. Several engagements of minor importance took place along the route, but according to the reports the Japanese were invariably successful.

Several times the town is reported to have been captured, but later dispatches have shown that these reports were inaccurate, and that the Japanese were conducting their operations against the place with great carefulness, and that they intended, when the real attack was made, that it should be successful. Che Foo, from which place the dispatch announcing the fall of Port Arthur is sent, is a Chinese city on the south coast of the Shen Tung promontary, some ninety miles south of Port Arthur, from which it is separated by the Gulf of Pe Chi Li.

Japanese Diplomats Gratified.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The dispatch from Che Foo announcing the fall of Port Arthur was taken to the Japanese legation here and shown to one of the officials, who was much gratified at the intelligence. Credence is given to the news by the legation officials because of the fact that it comes from Chinese sources, a matter not likely unless it was well authenticated.

RELIGION OF JAPAN.

SHINTOISM RESPONSIBLE FOR JAPANESE LIBERALITY.

The National Religion Harmonizes Somewhat With Western Thought—The Spirit of Toleration—Not Regularly Established Until 1868.

A Japanese gentleman not long ago visited a drug store on the Third avenue, in this city, and asked for a postage stamp. The stamp was duly supplied by the head of the drug store, who, wishing to be pleasant and agreeable to the foreigner, said, "Well, sir, which do you like better, America or China?"

The Japanese gentleman indignantly replied: "May I suggest, sir, that it is your business to sell drugs and stamps, and that you should confine yourself to those duties? I am not a Chinaman, but a native of Japan, and it is a mark of your ignorance of geography that you do not know the difference."

Without apologizing for the rudeness of the gentleman of Japan, we venture to remark that western peoples, even the most educated among us, do not seem to carefully distinguish between Japan and China.

The Japanese have always regarded themselves as far in advance in civilization, and there is nothing which offends the native of the island of Japan more than to be taken for a Chinaman.

Very much of the liberal attitude of the people of Japan toward western thought and custom arises from the fact that its national religion is Shintoism.

Most people imagine that Buddhism is the religion of Japan, and consequently the national cult of Shintoism is a religious belief which until the last 30 years had never been heard of in the western world.

For centuries Japan was a terra incognita to the rest of humanity, although its history dates from 660 B. C., when Jimmer Tenno was king, and Shintoism was his creed. Buddhism was not introduced into Japan until 550 of the Christian era, when it came from India by way of Korea.

The term Shinto is of Chinese origin and is expressed by the almost unpronounceable Japanese word of Kami-no-michi, the meaning of both words being "the way of the spirits." The essential principle of Shintoism is a combination of ancestor worship and nature worship, and it would seem that the latter of these elements is largely due to the contact of Japan with the Taoism of China. Shintoism is therefore the veneration of the country's heroes and benefactors of every age, legendary, historical, ancient and modern.

The essential feature of Shintoism is its liberal attitude toward other religious beliefs, and when Buddhism was brought into the country the priests of the ancient belief extended the right hand of fellowship toward its missionaries. But the same liberality has not always been returned by the clergy of Buddhism, and not very long ago one of the great temples at Tokyo was burned by the Buddhists to prevent its falling into the hands of the Shinto priests.

Shintoism has been equally liberal toward modern Protestant missionaries, for before the Church of England edifice at Tokyo, now known as St. Andrew's church, was built the present Shinto government lent one of the Shinto temples for Church of England services. Whenever opposition to Christianity has arisen it has come from the old nobility, who are opposed to all change and are zealous supporters of Buddhism.

Although Shintoism has been the ancient religion of Japan for more than 24 centuries, it had never been declared the "established religion" of Japan until the year 1868, when for reasons wholly political it became the established religion of the country. A grant of $300,000 a year was made for the maintenance of the Shinto temples and shrines, which are said to be somewhere about 100,000 in number.

The Buddhism of Japan had been exceedingly aggressive and had almost subverted the ancient system of Shintoism, but now when a child is born it is taken by its parents either to a Shinto or a Buddhist temple for dedication. Funerals are now conducted by either Shinto or Buddhist priests, as the relatives may prefer.

The first great god of the Shintos is Mingo no Mikoto, the remote ancestor of the priest mikado, who is said to have been descended from the god and goddess of the sun. The mikado is known among the Japanese as Tenshi, or the son of heaven, on account of his celestial descent, the title of mikado meaning very much the same as the sublime porte of the Ottomans—namely, "the presence," an expression so common in oriental lands for exalted personages. It is said that when the goddess of the sun made the mikado's remote ancestor (Mingo) sovereign of Japan she delivered to him "the way of the gods" and decreed that his dynasty should be as immovable as the sun and the moon; hence the need for making Shintoism the established religion. She also gave him a mirror as a sacred emblem, saying, "Look upon this mirror as my spirit, keep it in the same house and upon the same floor with yourself, and worship it as if you were worshiping my actual presence." The story is that this sacred mirror is still in the Shinto temple of Naiku, at Yamada, although it has never been seen by a western traveler.

The rites of Shintoism for many years occupied a conspicuous place in the rules of the court of Japan, and there are ten sections of the sacred book known as the "Yengi Shiki" devoted to court ceremonies. It must be understood that, according to Shinto belief, the great incarnate god is the mikado himself, but the gods of Shintoism are numbered by thousands.—Thomas P. Hughes in New York Sun.

FOR THE WEARY FEET.

Some of the Evils of Tight Shoes and How to Cure Them.

A man who has made the human foot an object of research and study declares that short stockings are very nearly as injurious as short shoes. Hose of insufficient length press the knuckles of the toes upward, and when the shoe forces them down the natural result is a painful excrescence that vulgar folks designate as a corn.

"But surely you don't consider an ill fitting stocking the cause of bunions, do you?" I inquired.

"One of them," he replied. "Corns are the result of pressure. You see, the blood is forced from the sebaceous glands; therefore an excessive or unnatural quantity of oil is thrown off. This diseases the blood, and the oil forces its way to the surface of the toe. As it reaches the cuticle it evaporates, leaving the top layer hard. Layer upon layer of oil forms downward and deepens until it presses on the nerves. Corns have no roots. That idea is fallacious. But they cannot be cured until an instrument goes beneath all those layers of diseased oil and removes them. A soft corn is more easily treated and is largely the result of acid in the blood.

"After a corn has been removed find out literally where the shoe pinches, then bathe the feet in cold water every morning upon arising and rub the part with prepared chalk."

My informant added that for dry feet always use ice cold water; for moist feet inclined to perspire freely, the water as hot as the skin can stand it, and bathe just before retiring. If the feet swell after much walking, put a little vinegar in the hot water; if they ache, use a few drops of ammonia or borax.

Rest the feet often. To do this change the shoes as frequently as possible. Even from an old to a new shoe is a rest. The muscles of the foot tire of one position, no matter how easy the leather or last may be. Four or five times a day, if it is convenient, are none too often to take this trouble, and its benefits are astonishing.

Ingrowing nails are the result of the corners being cut too close, allowing the shoe to press against them. This again requires skilled treatment. The pedicure's patronage is becoming as extensive as that of the manicure, for, apart from the treatment of painful excrescences, beautifying the foot is greatly in vogue. Preparations to whiten the skin are in use, and all the art of the manicure is called upon to assist that of the pedicure. Some society women can now present as well kept foot as hand, the nails rounded and polished with equal daintiness.—New York Recorder.

The "Wandering Stones."

Near the little village of San Jose, Peru, on the shores of the great lake of Titicaca, the most lofty lake in the whole known world, are three pillars of stone of unequal height. On one of these huge blocks the rude features of a human being have been cut, and the other two are covered with designs of various kinds, all believed to have some mysterious reference to sun worship. Who the engraver of these monoliths was or at what age of the world the engraving was done is not known, but it is highly probable that it was done long before the Americas had ever been seen by any white men. The stones are so large as to preclude the idea of their having been erected by human beings, the best explanation being that they were deposited by glaciers where they stand. That the natives have some legend to this effect is proved by the fact that they call them "wandering stones."—St. Louis Republic.

Syllogistic.

Forty years since "Porte Crayon" was down on Albermarle sound and told a native that there were men with mouths eight inches wide. The native declared that was a fish story. Porte reproved him for his incredulity and pointed out that deductions from known facts proved this statement. "We know," he said, "that oysters must be eaten whole. We know that there are oysters eight inches across the minor dimension. Therefore there must be mouths eight inches wide to take them in, or the beautiful chain of harmony in the universe is broken."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Not a Secret.

He placed his hand upon his heart.

"You cannot imagine," he protested, "what a terrible load I carry and yet give no sign to the world."

She turned away her head.

"Believe me," she faltered, "the world knows."

A subtle something in the way she raised her handkerchief to her face impelled him to surreptitiously take another clove or two.—Detroit Tribune.

A Probable Source.

"Funny idea the ancients had, wasn't it, of giving a dead man money to take to the next world with him?"

"I wonder if that was how the expression 'money to burn' originated?"—Indianapolis Journal.

John Ziska, the one eyed chief of the Hussites, ordered in his will that his skin should be tanned and made into a drum. "The noise which my skin will make," said he, "will frighten away all our enemies and put them to flight."

A WRECK

of the physical constitution often comes from unnatural, pernicious habits, contracted through ignorance or from excesses. Such habits result in loss of manly power, nervous exhaustion, nervous debility, impaired memory, low spirits, irritable temper, and a thousand and one derangements of mind and body. Epilepsy, paralysis, softening of the brain and even dread insanity sometimes result from such reckless self-abuse.

To reach, reclaim and restore such unfortunates to health and happiness, is the aim of the publishers of a book written in plain but chaste language, on the nature, symptoms and curability, by home treatment, of such diseases. This book is sent sealed, in plain envelope, on receipt of ten cents in stamps to pay postage.

A VICTORY FOR PASKOLA

It Receives the Official Endorsement of Eminent Experts and a Jury of Representative Citizens.

The suit brought by Ohio's Food Commissioner against a Cincinnati druggist for selling Paskola on the ground that it was nothing but glucose, resulted in a great victory for Paskola and a verdict against the State.

During the course of the trial, Prof. Shaller of the University of Cincinnati, testified that Paskola was not glucose, and even if it was, it would be harmless. He also bore witness to its activity as a digestive agent.

Prof. Wm. Dickore of the Miami College, testified to the same facts. So did Prof. Schmidt, the chemist of the Board of Health, Prof. Wm. Hoffman and others.

A practical test was made in court, showing the digestive action of Paskola on eggs and meats of various kinds, whereas glucose under precisely the same conditions produced no effect whatever.

This test but confirmed the expert's statements and proved Paskola to be of great value in indigestion and wasting diseases.

This verdict disposes of the malicious attack that has been made against Paskola by interested rivals, and suits have now been brought against the proprietors of a well-known emulsion of cod liver oil for having given wide circulation to a false formula and other misrepresentations regarding it.

The animus of this attack will be the better understood when it is stated that Paskola is being largely used in the place of cod liver oil.

LIKE A MIRACLE.

AN AMHERST LADY RELATES HER EXPERIENCE TO A REPORTER.

Salt Rheum, Impure Blood and a Racking Cough That Baffled Physicians Finally Cured.

Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

In the town of Amherst, Mass., Mr. Geo. B. Pierce and his mother are widely known as the proprietors of the Amherst Creamery Association. Mrs. Pierce has been a sufferer for a long time with Salt Rheum and a distressing cough that foreboded Consumption, but they have given way to health and vigor. Hearing of this a reporter called on Mrs. Pierce and the following experience was related:—

"For a long time I was a sufferer from Salt Rheum," said Mrs. Pierce, "but about two years ago I slipped and hurt my knee. This seemed to make my Salt Rheum worse. I can't begin to tell the agony I was in, my limbs became a mass of raw flesh covered with running sores. My friends would say they were afraid I would not live to see another spring, and I thought so too. Well, I heard of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and Dr. David Kennedy's Salt Rheum Cream; I sent for them and commenced using them, and in three weeks I could walk out of doors. Why last night I walked a mile, and I am sixty-three years of age. It shows that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and Salt Rheum Cream can do more than the physicians, for they made me well after my doctors told me I was incurable. I must also tell you of another preparation Dr. Kennedy advised me to use, which did as much for me. It is Dr. Kennedy's Cherry Balsam. I have had a wretched cough for the past fifteen years, the best doctors in this part of the state united in saying that it was incurable, and that it was only a matter of time before my lungs would give out—my sleep was restless, I would lie awake for hours. I well recollect the first time I used Dr. Kennedy's Cherry Balsam. It relieved my throat at once, and I slept all through that night, which was the first full night's rest I had in several years. It seemed like a miracle. I took but two bottles of Cherry Balsam, when I was entirely cured.

Mrs. Pierce's neighbors confirm her statement, and it is was found that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, Cherry Balsam and Salt Rheum Cream had made others in Amherst as happy by curing them of some disease.

Favorite Remedy ranks with the medical profession as the most perfect of all blood and nerve medicines. It restores the liver to a healthy condition, and cures constipation. It is a certain cure for all diseases and weaknesses peculiar to females, and affords protection from attacks that originate in change of life. It cures scrofula, salt rheum, ulcers, tumors, rheumatism, dyspepsia, all kidney, bladder and urinary diseases, gravel, diabetes and Bright's disease. In this last disease it has made many cures where all else failed.

Dr. David Kennedy's Cherry Balsam will cure the worst cases of asthma, bronchitis, coughs, colds, incipient consumption, whooping cough or croup. Taken connection with Favorite Remedy, it has never been known to fail. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 a bottle. Dr. David Kennedy's Salt Rheum Cream is for external application and is sold at 50c a package. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy costs $1.00 a bottle or six bottles for $5.00.

Full directions accompany each bottle so that any one can readily understand just how to take them for the different complaints.

Vermont's school children voted on the selection of a State flower The total vote was 17,611, of which red clover received 9,572; daisy 2,297; buttercup 945, and the others were scattering. The campaign in favor of clover was made on the grounds that it is indigenous to the soil, fragrant and most useful. The Legislature has ratified the choice of the children by passing an act formally designating the red clover as the State flower.

Six deaths have occurred within a week in a family at New Leban n. from that dread scourge diphtheria. The disease is epidemic in Yonkers, and from many villages and country districts throughout the State come reports of the alarming prevalence of this plague, which seems to be of an unusually malignant type, the death rate being very high. No explanation of the prevalence of the disease has been given, but it is evident that abundant opportunities to practically test the virtues of antitoxine will be afforded physicians in both city and country.

Francis L. Wellman, who was attorney for the Metropolitan Traction Company in the Krempf trial, yesterday, resigned his position as Assistant District Attorney of New York county. The reason assigned is that he has been criticised for continuing to practice in the civil courts and has been charged with neglecting his official duties for his private practice. He says that when he accepted a position in the District Attorney's office it was with the understanding that when his official duties permitted he would devote himself to civil practice and though conscious that he has neglected no public duty, he is not willing, in view of the attacks now being made on District Attorney Fellows, to run the risk of embarrassing him, and, since he cannot afford to give up his private practice, resigns his official position.

THE NEXT ASSEMBLY.

Occupations of Its Members—Plenty of Lawyers.

The composition of the new Assembly is as follows: Lawyers 34; merchants 27; farmers 14; clerks 10; manufacturers 9; real estate 4; builders 3; transportation 3; hotel keepers 2; physicians 2; insurance men 2; contractors 2, speculators 2; bank president 1; lithographer 1; stevedore 1; restauranter 1; carpenter 1; artist 1; superintendent 1; nurseryman 1; commercial traveler 1; plumber 1. It is hardly an even balance of occupation with 34 lawyers and only 1 plumber, but the lawyers always seem to be in the ascendancy. There were 36 of them in the last Assembly.

ELECTRIC RAILWAY MATTERS.

Two More New Cars Coming—Goshen People Given their First Ride Over the New Line.

Two new vestibuled cars were shipped from St. Louis to the Traction Company Nov. 20th, and they are expected now any time. Until they arrive, the company will be unable to run cars regularly between Middletown and Goshen on the schedule contemplated—a car to leave both ends of the route, the Asylum and Goshen, every forty-five minutes.

Two cars were run to Goshen, last evening, for the accommodation of people in that village, who wished to attend the performance at the Casino and a considerable number availed themselves of the opportunity to ride over the new road. The party alighted at the corner of North and King streets and gave several rousing cheers for the electric road and its officers that drew a large crowd about them.

When the performance at the theatre closed, the cars were in waiting in front of the Casino and took the Goshen people home, the cars running as far as Van Steenberg's foundry. Capt. Rockwell had charge of one of the cars and Frank LeBarr, the other. A number of Middletowners made the trip to Goshen and back. The return trip from the Goshen foundry to Franklin Square, was made in thirty minutes.

The construction gang is making rapid progress in laying the track through Spring street in the village of Goshen, and with fair weather, the road will be completed in a few days.

Children's Clothing Again!

IS it possible that you have already forgotten what we said about children's clothing? If so, we repeat for your especial benefit. 'Twas this: We are selling our entire stock of Children's Clothing without profit. This method we have adopted because we believe that can we once serve you we shall always serve you, feeling assured we can supply you with the best goods at the lowest price attainable. We have marked the prices on the children's goods in plain figures, so you can see for yourself.

To the contrary, as has been insinuated, we are not working off old stock because we sell without profit. The stock is all new, and the same that we would have sold you at a profit had we not adopted this method.

Again:—Is it probable that we make up the profit on the other lines of stock with other clothiers in town, when we sell, as we do, below their rates? How think you?

those with clearly defined ideas as to quality and who know a good thing when they see it. It's the kind of trade for which we cater and the quality of our goods is our strong argument. THE NEW SILK MILL.

Middletown's Newest Industry Doing a Prosperous Business—Every Loom in Operation and Orders on Hand that Will Keep the Factory Busy for Some Time—How Silks are Woven in Various Figures and Combiaations of Colors.

The Hartley Silk Mill, on Union street, Middletown's newest industry, bids fair to be an important factor in the city's manufacturing enterprises. It made a modest beginning, as have most of the successful enterprises and with its present excellent management, is likely to grow in importance as the years go by. Every loom in the factory is running on full time and there are orders ahead that will keep them running for some time to come.

For some time past the looms have been running on silks for muffiers, but the season for these goods is about at an end, but silks for scarfs and neckties will take their place and the season is likely to continue for some time.

This concern manufactures silk of all kinds, from the plain black dress goods to the finest trimming silks.

The company purchases the raw silk and the throwing and dyeing is done in Paterson. It owns a complete throwing outfit, but as considerable space is required for the machinery and there is no room for it in the building on Union street, it is necessary to have the work done elsewhere.

The silk comes from the dyers in large hanks or skeins and is twisted and wound on spools and bobbins here.

The process of silk weaving is an interesting sight to one who has never witnessed it. Silks in all conceivable colors and of the most intricate patterns, also brocaded silks are woven as rapidly and apparently as easily as the plain goods. The operation is a very mysterious one the uninitiated, but to those familiar with the business it is very simple. The designs and combinations of colors which are produced with the precision of a skilled artist, are made by using perforated paper patterns attached to the looms. The designs do not appear on the pattern which, to the ordinary observer, are merely long strips of paper punched full of holes, without regard to design, but these holes or perforations are just where they were intended to be by the designer, and so control the harness of the loom as to produce the desired figure or combination of colors in the web of the silk.

Each of the looms in the factory is in charge of a lady. The work is of a delicate character and naturally ladies make the best operators.

A BIRTHDAY SURPRISE PARTY.

The 24th Separate Company Helps Sergeant Strack Celebrate His Thirtieth Birthday and Presents Him With a Badge.

Sergeant E. C. Strack, of the 24th Separate Company, was treated to a genuine surprise party, last evening, the occasion being his thirtieth birthday. Mrs. Strack, who was engineering the surprise, invited the members of the 24th, and at 9:30 o'clock, about thirty members of that organization marched from the Armory to Mr. Strack's pleasant home on King street.

"Ed" was completely taken back, but the boys went in and soon made themselves perfectly at home.

After the performance at the Casino, a number of the other members of the 24th dropped in and a most enjoyable evening was spent. Mrs. Strack had prepared an excellent supper and while the boys were eating, Lieut. Stivers appeared on the scene with the musicians of the West Point Orchestra, which had played at the reception at Hon. M. D. Stivers.

Capt. McIntyre, on behalf of the officers and "non-coms." presented Sergeant Strack with a handsome badge, of the design adopted by the company some time ago. The badge was suspended from a sergeant's chevron of blue and white enamel.

It was a late hour when the happy party broke up and all unite in praises of Mr. and Mrs. Strack's hospitality.

A DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

A Farm Barn Burned at the Clove—Forty Head of Cattle Perish in the Flames.

Mr. Jacob Swartout, a farmer residing near the Clove in Wantage township, Sussex county, met with a serious loss, last evening, in the burning of his large barns together with all their contents including forty head of cattle.

Mr. Swartout was returning from Deckertown, when the light of the burning buildings attracted his attention. He hastened home to find them in ruins.

Investigation showed that the fire resulted from the carelessness of some boys who took a lighted lantern into the hay mow and in some way ignited the hay.

A PLEASANT SOCIAL EVENT.

The Reception at Hon. M. D. Stivers.

The reception given, yesterday afternoon and last evening, at the residence of Hon. M. D. Stivers by Mr. and Mrs. Stivers, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Stivers and Dr. and Mrs. T. D. Mills was one of the most enjoyable affairs of its kind in Middletown's social history.

A very large number of invitations had been issued, and during the afternoon and evening over 400 guests were present, among them many from out of town, Port Jervis being particularly well represented by many friends of Dr. and Mrs. Mills.

Music was furnished by the West Point Orchestra and the refreshments by Duncan, of Newburgh.

An Error Corrected

An item appeared in this paper, yesterday, stating that Mr. George Stickles had been called to Ellenville on account of injuries sustained by his mother in falling down stairs. We are requested to state that while Mr. Stickles did go to Ellenville on business, there is no truth whatever in the story of his mother being injured or even receiving a fall.

Little Children Play a Dangerous Game.

INCIDENTS AND HAPPENINGS IN GOSHEN.

The Electric Road's First Goshen Business—Exchange of Pulpits—Minstrels—Church Fair.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

—The theatre party that went to Middletown on an electric car, last night, and the two carloads who returned home by the new route "after the opera was over," are certain that the new road is a fine thing, and are equally certain that its manager, Capt. Rockwell, is very accommodating and anxious to serve the interests of the public.

—Dr. Robinson, of the First Congregational Church, Middletown, and Rev. Robert B. Clark, of the First Presbyterian Church, this village, will exchange pulpits to-morrow morning.

—Deming's Minstrels are billed for Music Hall, Friday evening, Nov. 30th.

—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church will hold a fair for the sale of fancy articles, in the church chapel, Dec. 5th.

IN ANCIENT GOSHEN.

Not a Kirmess—Other Local and Personal Notes of Interest—The Effect of Conversion Upon the Fijians.

(From a Special Correspondent)

—The entertainment to be given under the auspices of the Vocal Society is not to be a kirmess, but a spectacular performance, consisting of various drills and dances. It will be given on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, and its object is to aid the Vocal Society in bearing the expenses of the free production of The Messiah on the evening of Dec. 27.

—Rev. R. B. Clark will visit Middletown two evenings next week for the purpose of drilling the singers in that city, who are to assist our own chorus on the evening of the 27th.

—Miss Pope's dancing class met on Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mr. Chas. Cooper, on South street.

—The ladies of the Social Aid Society of the Presbyterian church, netted about $80 from the production of the cantata, "The Dairymaid's Supper."

—A number of people in this village received invitations to the marriage of Miss Marie Bonner and Mr. Nicholas Beach, at St. Bartholomew's Church, in New York, Thursday afternoon. One of the bridesmaids was Miss Mabel Adams, formerly of Stony Ford.

—Before the Fijians became converted by missionaries they seem to have practiced hospitality with a thoroughness which is not often seen in christian countries. If a friend dropped in unexpectedly to take dinner with him and his larder was but slimly provided, he did not allow it to worry him, but at once gave orders to have the most convenient and, in one sense, the nearest relative killed, upon which he, the survivors and the guest sat down to the festive board and proceeded to enjoy themselves in their simple artless way. It is quite customary for people to say they will not "make company of you but will treat you like one of the family," but with the Fiji Islander it is safer to be company. Now, since his conversion, he has grown so particular that he will not climb a tree, on Sunday, to get a cocoa-nut for a starving stranger. We read that while he was still a cannibal he was in the habit of designating the human game with which he was in the habit of supplying his table as "long pig." While probably no one values the opinion of a Fijian especially, it must have added one more pang to his victim's sufferings when he thought of figuring on a heathen's bill of fare as "long pig." G. H.

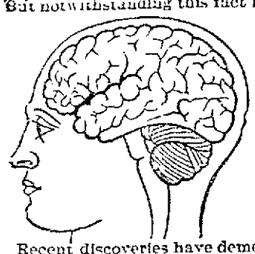
MYSTERIES!

The Nervous System the Seat of Life and Mind. Recent Wonderful Discoveries.

No mystery has ever compared with that of human life. It has been the leading subject of professional research and study in all ages. But notwithstanding this fact it is not generally known that the seat of life is located in the upper part of the spinal cord, near the base of the brain, and so sensitive is this portion of the nervous system that even the prick of a needle will cause instant death.



Recent discoveries have demonstrated that all the organs of the body are under the control of the nerve centers, located in or near the base of the brain, and that when these are deranged the organs which they supply with nerve fluid are also deranged. When it is remembered that a serious injury to the spinal cord will cause paralysis of the body below the injured point, because the nerve force is prevented by the injury from reaching the paralyzed portion, it will be understood how the derangement of the nerve centers will cause the derangement of the various organs which they supply with nerve force.

Two-thirds of chronic diseases are due to the imperfect action of the nerve centers at the base of the brain, not from a derangement primarily originating in the organ itself. The great mistake of physicians in treating these diseases is that they treat the organ rather than the nerve centers which are the cause of the trouble.

DR. MILES, the celebrated specialist, has profoundly studied this subject for over 20 years, and has made many important discoveries in connection with it, chief among which is the fact contained in the above statement, and that the ordinary methods of treating it are wrong. All headache, dizziness, fullness, confusion, pressure, blues, mental melancholy, insanity, epilepsy, St. Vitus dance, etc., are nervous diseases no matter how caused. The wonderful success of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is due to the fact that it is based on the foregoing principle.

DR. MILES' RESTORATIVE NERVINE is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by DR. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

Since Hanner died the sun don't shine so bright,
The stars don't twinkle near so keen at night,
The church bell Sunday morning ain't the cheer
It had when she was here,
Since Hanner died.

The very chickens miss Hanner's care
And go round with a sorter lonesome air.
There ain't no kind of joy about the place
Without her smilin face
Since Hanner died.

The garden tools hangs in the apple trees;
The lessweeds air a-killin off the peas.
There's no one here to hoe the taters now
Er feed the Logs an cow
Since Hanner died.

I s'pose, of course, I'd orter be resigned,
But when I go out in the shed an find
The ax she chopped the wood with all them years
I wet it with my tears
Since Hanner died
—Robley D. Stevenson in New York Sun.

BARRED OUT.

Bright petals fell softly on the white tablecloth, glass and silver glittered in the gaslight, and two people sat moodily opposite each other over dessert, one apparently too indifferent and the other too abstracted to renew the conversation that had dwindled to a desultory end with the departure of the servant.

The man, though not in his first youth, was handsome but for the lines in his forehead that revealed a latent discontent. The woman was fair haired and beautiful. Her smooth skin and delicate white hands told of luxury and ease and a life that knew not the toil and moil of penury or the harsh buffets of a workaday world. Yet tonight her heart was busy with a fancied grievance and oppressed with vague portent.

The husband had long ceased to invite his wife's confidence, stung by her growing, unaccountable coldness, and, all too conscious of the disparity in their ages, silently but bitterly acknowledged that his marriage had been a mistake and left her to her own devices. There were times when a pardonable desire for explanation almost overcame him, but pride always checked the query that rose to his lips, and he went on blaming himself for his shortsightedness in the passive endurance of an empty fashionable life.

If he had asked that searching question, she could not have answered it, hardly knowing that the ennui of repletion had made her capricious and unwilling to believe her whims had driven them apart. So, too thoughtless and inexperienced to attempt a redemption of the waning homage that was still her own, she turned like a wayward child to the first sympathetic ear to be consoled for the mischief she had wrought.

And the consolation became so sweet! There was a certain danger about it that attracted and brought a strange excitement into her idle life—it not only soothed her ruffled feelings, but almost crushed out of memory the grievance it had come to deplore.

Only sometimes, when stormy weather kept husband and wife together for some hours, until he was able to go off to his club and she to her friends, or when the servant left them sitting silently apart, even in the genial after dinner hour, the bitter, unjust sense of injury was paramount.

She rose, daintily shaking out the folds of her silk gown. Her husband held the door open, and as she swept past him secretly admired the poise of her proud little head and the thick, natural wave of golden hair gathered into wonderful curves and loops. The faint flush on her cheeks, her downcast eyes—even the detail of her jet trimmed dress—were in his mind as he went back, sighing, to his solitary cigar.

She ran up stairs to her room with an anxious glance at the tall clock on the landing that ticked out a solemn monotonous warning from the depths of its rigid heart, and unlocking an antique cabinet discovered in one of its mysterious recesses a note to which she read with a reflective little frown. Then, hastily donning fur trimmed mantle and small bonnet, she drew a thick veil over her pretty, even features, and stealing softly down stairs slipped out of the house. The season of the fashionable seaside town in which she had chosen to linger on week after week was nearly ended. She hurried on through the almost deserted streets, looking timidly about her, for she was not used to ramble unattended. Though October was near, the air was balmy but for an occasional chill breeze that swept over the sea, across whose dark, sobbing waters the moon cast a gleaming, silver green pathway.

She paused near the pier, shamefaced and irresolute, to await her sympathetic friend, whom she saw approaching with an unmistakable expression of pleasure and gratification in his eyes. There was a brief, silent greeting. Then they wandered on to the shell strewn beach, exchanging confidence to the safe accompaniment of the receding tide.

The subtle certainty of perfect appreciation effaced every doubt that had assailed her as to the judiciousness of keeping this appointment, and she told, recklessly enough, of the widening gulf between herself and the husband who could not or would not understand her, and the yearning for something she had never known, of her intellectual loneliness. And in the low musical tones that thrilled her to spoke of his own wasted existence, the wife who was no companion to him, the sympathy he longed for—and, at last, of their own friendship, hinting something deeper. She chided him softly, but with a consciousness of forgiveness for his presumption, and an equivocal argument ensued that absorbed them into forgetfulness of the flying hours till her startled cry and uplifted hand brought his carefully worded discourse to a sudden end.

From the church tower the hour of midnight boomed distinctly through the gentle hiss of the distant waves. Each stroke fell like a knell upon her throbbing heart. Looking up, pale and terrified, she saw with dismay that the lights on the esplanade had been extinguished, and the great hotels, looming with grim majesty out of the darkness, closed and shuttered.

A 12 o'clock tete-a-tete on the beach—oh, the shame of it—the stinging scandal for her dearest friends to revel in, if it ever came to their ears! The clock must be wrong, she urged piteously, thinking of the "little half hour" her conscience had been stifled into granting, but a glance at the jeweled bauble on her chatelaine by the light of a spluttering fusee confirmed her worst fears and the integrity of the maligned timekeeper.

There was no time to lose. She turned impatiently toward the town, and her companion, following with more speed than dignity, was wise enough to attempt no renewal of their perilous conversation. Through the streets she ran, breathlessly, to the surprise of the solitary policeman and sundry feline wanderers who scuttled noiselessly out of her path. How she longed to be hidden safely in the corner of her comfortable carriage, moving drowsily homeward after some Cinderella! But seaside festivities were nearly over, and there was no excuse for her tardy arrival. She held her head down, fearful of being seen on foot in such haste, and with her attractive companion, whose sensibility would have been sorely hurt at the eagerness with which she dismissed him when the house came in sight, had he not felt alarmed for his own reputation as well as the safe custody of his uncongenial wife's fortune, and with a hurried wish that all would be well walked away with an air of relief ere she reached the doorstep.

She rang the bell with a miserable sensation of being deserted in her hour of need, and a shuddering fear crept over her as she waited outside the house that looked darkly inhospitable with its fastened shutters and massive door. A boisterous wind sprang up, making her shiver in spite of her warm cloak. Clouds chased each other across the fair, round moon. She knocked and rang again impatiently.

No sound of welcome admission to warmth and light, only the faint echo of her friend's footsteps already in the distance. With the erratic logic of a spoiled and petted woman who had never seen the contrary side of the world she blamed him for not having waited—even remotely—until he saw her safely indoors, wondering, in helpless anger, that she had ever turned to him for sympathy.

A loud rat-a-tat, and then another, rather timid this time, for the closed door and retreating figure had grown hideous with awful meaning. What if her husband had discovered the secret meeting and shut her out forever! She knew men did such things on the spur of the moment, and in this case there had been a long and sullen estrangement to justify any conclusion he might pardonably come to. The thought became more terrible every instant as she knocked and rang frantically without result.

The church clock struck the half hour, a long, melancholy chime.

Trembling from head to foot, she leaned against the railings, her eyes heavy with despair. Where should she go? What should she do? The suspicious questioning of her friends, the astonished scrutiny of the townspeople, were equally difficult to face. Like a vision the awful future flashed through her bewildered brain. She saw herself exiled to the streets, a forlorn, wretched woman, forsaken by the man she despised in her real trouble, yearning to make amends for her past blindness and faintly imploring an inexorable fate at the steadfast door of the life she should know no longer.

Barred out! Oh, God! Barred out!

In undreamed of agony she pictured her husband's stern orders and the gossip in the servants' hall. Then, hardly knowing what she did and choking with desperate sobs, she turned toward the home that had become so dear, beating wildly at the door panels with her clinched fists and crying aloud like a frightened child:

"Let me in! Oh, do let me in!"

"Are you mad?" said suddenly a calm, well known voice at her side. "The maids are on the top floor at the back of the house, and nothing short of an earthquake would rouse James. If I were not careful to take my latchkey when I go to the club, he would present me with the key of the street. And why didn't you order the carriage to fetch you, or"—

He broke off suddenly. The ponderous door stood open, and he waited for her to pass in, but with a quick glance at her white face and closed eyes caught her tenderly in his arms as she fell insensible across the threshold. Gently as a woman he loosened the heavy cloak and took off the little bonnet, disentangling it from her soft, golden hair with dexterous fingers. Then, probably from a lamentable ignorance of the principles of first aid, he bent down and kissed the sweet, tear stained face that rested peacefully near his heart.

And the wife, coming slowly back to a new life of perfect love and trust through the shadow of her former folly, felt and answered the timid embrace with clinging arms and tears of joy and gratitude.—London Today.

It Suited Her.

They were threading their way slowly among the gorgeously dressed dummies in the dry goods shop, stopping every now and then to admire or criticise and to inspect linings and price marks. Nothing had pleased their fastidious fancy very much until the girl in brown saw a black serge just in front of her.

"There, Marie!" she exclaimed in triumph. "That's what I want. See how that umbrella skirt hangs! See how that coat sits in the back! The frock makes even a lay figure distinguished. If it's silk lined and doesn't cost too much, I shall have it."

She advanced and laid inquiring hands upon the frock, lifting the coat to inspect the lining. Then she fell back with a little cry. It was not a dummy, but another customer, who turned and faced her.—New York Recorder.

FRANK W. P. BELLEW.

The Artist Who Called Himself "Chip" and His Originality.

Frank W P Bellew, the artist who recently died at his home in New York, and who under the name of "Chip," became so widely known through his humorous pictures, will be greatly missed by a wide circle of friends in this country. Comic lines were his, and his drawings may be said to be technically not so artistic as many of his contemporaries who now survive him, but his originality and quaint humor were all his own and he worked in a particular line not approached by any other. His most successful character was his dog and this dog possessed such a happy disposition and were such a perpetual smile that no matter if he were introduced into a picture where he had no particular duty to perform the mere fact of seeing him there would invariably be irresistible. Chip's dog, as he walked through the columns of the comic journals or sat occasionally in some far corner and with his quiet smile gazed at the scene depicted by the artist, has done much in an unconscious way to make the public better. He has taught us a lesson of cheerfulness, for he has invariably breathed the spirit of a joyous disposition. The New York Sun says of Mr Bellew:

"He was the son of Frank Bellew the well known caricaturist, and as a young boy he decided to follow in his father's footsteps. To prevent the confusion that would arise from the similarity of the two names he selected as a pseudonym Chip, to indicate that he was a chip of the old block. But opportunities that were denied to his father and his father's contemporaries were opened up to him. Comic papers were founded and flourished that were really funny, and in them Chip's work found a ready market. Puck, Judge, Life and a score of other papers were on the lookout for good work and Chip's originality and humor made him a valuable find. His market was established, and his signature became known. Chip's work was essentially caricature.

Here are a few drawings of Mr Bellew's done in the years past for Life.

GOSHEN, NOV. 23.—Philip M. Scherott, of Newburgh, asked that three years' taxes, $18.70, be refunded, his property having been purchased with pension money. Referred to Law Committee.

Mr. Fredericks, the Chairman of the Committee on Foxes, reported that bounty is to be paid on 313 foxes killed in this county, as follows: Blooming Grove, 21; Chester, 26; Cornwall, 10; Crawford, 17; Deerpark, 59; Goshen, 5; Greenville, 4; Hamptonburgh, 2; Highlands, 5; Woodbury, 49; Minisink, 2; Monroe, 9; Montgomery, 10; Mount Hope, 15; Newburgh Town, 7; New Windsor, 8; Wallkill, 22; Warwick, 37; Wawayanda, 5.

Report filed.

On motion of Mr. Durland, of Warwick, the fire district of Florida was allowed to raise $300 for fire purposes, as voted by the taxpayers of that district.

On motion of Mr. Thompson a draft was drawn to Willard M. Clark for expenses as School Commissioner.

On motion of Mr. Kissam the salary of the jail physician at Newburgh was made $60.

When Mr. Boyd took the chair he said he had some suggestions to make in regard to the conduct of business. He made them to-day, at the close of business. They were:

1. That Supervisors should agree among themselves how many copies of the proceedings they wanted. City members usually have too many, those from the country towns not enough.

2. That corporations which pay their tax to the Controller be exempted by the county from their share of State tax, on presentation of the Controller's receipt. This is the law, and time and trouble will be saved by the suggestion.

3. That since the report of the Superintendents of the Poor is published in the Supervisors' Proceedings, the Superintendents be asked to discontinue the publication of their report in pamphlet form. It was a needless expense to distribute 2,000 copies.

4. That the Ratio Committee appoint a time for giving every member a chance to be heard on his assessment, and to offer any explanations that may seem pertinent or necessary.

Messrs. Adams and Iseman spoke in commendation of the last suggestion, which met with the general approval of the Board.

Adjourned until Monday at 11 a. m.

THE ERIE'S NEW TIME TABLE.

Few Changes in the Running of Local Trains

A new time card will go into effect on the Erie at noon, to-morrow. There are but few changes in local trains and these are but slight. They are as follows:

West bound—The Middletown Express will arrive in this city at 8:05 p. m., five minutes later than the old schedule. No. 7, which heretofore left this station at 8:37, will under the new arrangement leave at 8:30, or seven minutes earlier.

The only change in east bound trains is in No. 6, which will leave at 12:58, one minute earlier than formerly and will stop at Main street station. No. 14, the Wells-Fargo Express, leaving here at 10:10 p. m., will carry passengers.

No. 7, which formerly ran through to Chicago, will hereafter run only to Buffalo, and No. 2 will start east from Hornellsville instead of Chicago.

A Baby's Life Saved.

WALTON, N. Y., April 14, 1894.—When my baby was six months old she was taken very badly with diarrhœa. A doctor came every day for a week. Baby got worse, until she could notice nothing at all. I got so worried I called on our druggists and he recommended Dr. Hand's Diarrhœa Mixture. I got it and just one half a bottle cured my baby and saved her life.

MAKES RED BLOOD

New Life for the Worn Out Nerve Tissues.

THE BODY GAINS RAPIDLA IN WEIGHT AND STRENGTH.

From the Greatest of All Nerve and Brain Restorers—Paine's Celery Compound Makes People Well—Watch the Crowded Streets of All Large Cities.

By far the finest portrait galleries in the world are the crowded streets of a large city.

"What a serious, tired expression on most every face!" one can't help saying to himself. 'It is rare that one goes by that does not wear something of that strained, worn look: and how many more pale lips there are than rosy ones. How often the eyes are dull, the flesh flabby, and that tell-tale line from the corner of the lip to the angle of the nose drawn painfully deep

Poor health is unmistakeable to the most casual observer. When the body is but poorly filled with flesh, and a feeling of languor pervades the system, plainly there is something lacking in the vital, nutritive powers. Impure blood is keeping the tissues poorly fed and starvingly vitalized.

Get the blood pure with Paine's celery compound and languor and debility will leave the body. Restore the nervous energy to the brain and nerve cells and good spirits and vigor will take the place of despondency and moodiness. Backaches, persistent headaches, that general feeling of fatague, neuralgia, rheumatism, and heart weaknes that shows itself in frequent palpitation—are all but various symptoms of a nervous organization badly nourished. Paine's celery compound promotes the healthy activity of the organs that make the blood and keep it pure. The weak parts of the body are thus enabled to build themselves up when this magnficent nerve and tissue builder is employed. The complete recovery and repair of the diseased organs in this way goes on rapidly, naturally, and the happy results are permanent. The effect of the intelligent use of Paine's celery compound in all wasting and debilitating diseases is to check at once the decline in strength, and to keep the tissues from futher degeneration.

WANTS HELP FROM RAILROAD MEN

Samuel D. Worden, Formerly of Middletown, Sentenced to be Hanged in California.

Mr. J. M. Wilson, of this city, has received a copy of a printed appeal for aid sent out by Salter D. Worden, from Yola, Cal.

Worden was arrested, tried and convicted of murder in the first degree for causing the death of an engineer and fireman and four soldiers by wrecking a train last summer.

He was sentenced to be hanged on February 12th, 1895, and asks help of union railroad men to make an appeal to the U. S. Court.

The man formerly lived in this city and Walton and was employed as brakeman on the O. and W. He managed to gain membership in the Brotherhood of Trainmen, but was expelled.

He was arrested for beating the Hotel Elberton out of a board bill and failing to return a livery rig hired of Wm. H. Murphy.

Worden went west about two years ago, but left such a bad record among railroad men in this locality that he is not likely to secure any help from them.

BOARD OF EXCISE.

Three Licenses Transferred — Robt. Wengatz Gets the Cottage Cafe License.

The Austin-Wengatz matter was settled by the former agreeing to transfer his license to Mr. Wengatz and the transfer was accordingly ratified by the board.

SCROFULA 12 YEARS

Always Sore. Face Burned Like Fire. Ashamed to be Seen. Four Doctors but Little Benefit. Cured by CUTICURA.

For about ten or twelve years I have been troubled with scrofula. My head was always sore, my face was dry and scaly, and burned like fire most of the time. My body had big red spots on it, and I did not know what to do. I went to four different doctors and they helped me at first. In the fall I got worse again; then I tried other remedies, but they did me no good. I was ashamed to go into public. I was a sight to look at. Every one would say, "What is the matter, why don't you take something?" Even at my daily labor I had to wear a sort of cap to keep the dirt from getting into the sores. After I would wash, I would be covered with big red pimples all over my neck and face. Some two or three people advised me to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES. I did try them, and am glad I have done so. Glad to say I am a well man, and in the best of health since. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too highly. I enclose my portrait.
